Reason for Revision: Corrected Hyperlinks

Date of Publication: August 30, 2023

Key Characteristics of the Change:
Documentation

Description of Change to the Customer:

Reason for Revision: Corrected Hyperlinks

This is a FYI notification only.

Intel will be transitioning from the Quality Document Management System (https://qdms.intel.com) to the Resource & Documentation Center (RDC) to communicate all Product Change Notifications.

The decision to transition to Resource & Documentation Center (RDC) stems from our commitment to deliver the best possible service to our valued customers. RDC offers a range of new features and enhancements that will greatly benefit Intel customer’s PCN needs.

Further notifications will be provided as the transition date approaches.

Customer Impact of Change and Recommended Action:

Once this transition has been completed QDMS will no longer be accessible and all notifications will be accessed via RDC (https://www.intel.com/content/www/us/en/resources-documentation/developer.html#gs.4ksao2).

Intel encourages customers to review the RDC User Guide to become familiar with this content platform. The RDC user guide can be accessed via the RDC User Guide (https://edc.intel.com/content/www/us/en/resources-documentation/rdc-user-guide/).

PCN related questions can be directed to Product Change Communications (product.change.communications@intel.com) QDMS related questions can be directed to QDMS (qdms_support@intel.com) until the transition date.

Please contact your Intel Account Representative/Customer Business Analyst if you have any further questions about this change.
